Introducing DAISY...

Welcome to the Spring 2006 edition of the National Talking Newspapers and Magazines catalogue. In this issue we are delighted to present our new DAISY service. DAISY is the name for an exciting new standard that gives everyone, and particularly the print disabled, a better way to read. If you own a talking book and magazine player, the new DAISY service offers an unprecedented range of choice and value with up to 50 publications and over 40 hours of audio available via one weekly CD. If you don't currently own, or have access to a talking book or magazine player, we are pleased to be able to offer our subscribers an exclusive £30 discount off the price of two selected players. See page 22 for further details.

DAISY - a better way to read

What can DAISY do for me?

Material presented in DAISY format can provide:

More content - the DAISY format enables publishers to put more content on a CD. DAISY compilation disks from National Talking Newspapers can contain over 40 hours of audio!

Enhanced navigation - jump between categories, publications and articles at the touch of a button.

Greater flexibility - listen to DAISY publications on a stand-alone player or on a portable player whilst travelling. Alternatively use a DAISY software player and access the material through a PC.

A bookmark facility for important material so you can return to important articles.

Variable play speeds and pitch compensation to enhance the listening experience.

More convenient - each DAISY CD is yours to keep - no need to return wallets or labels.

Most DAISY players also play audio and MP3 CDs!

What do I need to play DAISY material?

You will need either a talking book/magazine player or, if you wish to access DAISY material via a computer, a DAISY software player. There are a variety of players of both types available.

We are currently able to offer our subscribers selected players at a £30 discount!

See page 22 for details.

To take advantage of this offer, and for advice on playing National Talking Newspapers and Magazines DAISY compilations, please call customer services on:

WEEKLY DIGITAL CD-ROM SERVICE

Members who use personal computers can also obtain publications in digital text format on CD-ROM. Each weekly CD-ROM contains the previous six issues of 10 daily newspapers.

It has approximately 30 weekly newspapers and magazines, e.g. the Sunday papers, Economist, New Scientist etc., and 5 or 6 monthly magazines. It also has a selection of books downloaded from Project Gutenberg.

The CD-ROM is yours to keep - there's no need to return the disk or any of the packaging.

TITLES AVAILABLE IN DAISY FORMAT

We provide titles in DAISY format on DAISY compilation CDs containing a range of different publications. CD compilations are delivered either weekly or monthly. A subscription to a compilation gives you access to every publication listed for that compilation.

About the DAISY service

The new National Talking Newspapers and Magazines DAISY service utilises the advantages of the DAISY format to bring our listeners more content than ever before and in a more navigable format.

Each weekly compilation CD will contain up to 28 publications. This will include all of the weekly titles plus whichever less frequent titles from the list are available that week. We aim to include every edition of each title listed so, for example, over the course of a month every monthly listed for a particular compilation will be featured.

It should be noted however that due to production schedules there may be some occasions when we are unable to include some editions.

'People's Friend' and 'Geographical Magazine' are not recorded by National Talking Newspapers and we are therefore unable to include article level navigation for these particular titles.

You can access the compilations via a PC using a DAISY software player. Please note, however, that the compilations are audio only and have not been designed with software player functionality in mind. DAISY publications can also be transferred to other devices such as the Book Courier. NB. Users may experience navigational speed problems when using the following portable players to access National Talking Newspapers and Magazines DAISY compilations: Telex Scholar, EzDAISY and the Victor Reader Vibe.

Further information

DAISY is the acronym for 'Digital Accessible Information SYstem'. DAISY is a digital standard that permits anyone, and particularly the print disabled, to experience a better way to read.

If you would like more information about DAISY, visit the DAISY consortium website at www.daisy.org.

your choice

More than 230 national newspapers and magazines are available on audio CD, audio tape, DAISY or in digital format. Publications are delivered postage free to the visually impaired and subscribers can even change their choices during the course of their subscription. The National Talking Newspaper and Magazine service can be delivered in any of the five following formats.

audio CD Many publications are now available on audio CD, offering better navigation, improved playback quality and, unlike our audio cassettes which need to be returned for re-use, you get to keep them! Audio CD titles will play on any standard domestic CD player. They can also be played using certain RNIB talking book machines as well as DVD players and PC CD drives.

audio tape Recorded and produced in our National Recording Centre, the tapes are playable on any standard cassette player or music centre. Individual copies are sent FREEPOST in PVC postal wallets which have reversible address labels for FREEPOST return.

digital CD-ROM Our PC compatible CD-ROM is almost like having your own newsagent on a disk! The CDs are despatched weekly and contain an average of 15 daily and 13 weekly newspapers and 18 magazines - all in a digital text format. Also included are all monthly and quarterly magazines prepared that week as well as a selection of books from Project Gutenberg.

digital Many publications are available in digital text format, which is read by subscribers' own screen reading software. The texts can be delivered by email or may be downloaded from our website. The advantages of the digital service are that most daily newspapers can be delivered on the day of publication and the full text is available. Advice is freely available on the format most suitable for you.

DAISY Our range of DAISY compilations delivers unprecedented choice and value. The compilations are presented on CD-ROM and can be played on both hardware and software DAISY Talking Book & Magazine players. Offering enhanced navigation, variable play speed/pitch and bookmarking, DAISY CDs are a great way to access your favourite publications.
